The Department of Sociology at the University of Colorado Boulder invites applications for a position as Instructor of Sociology in collaboration with the Division of Continuing Education. The appointment will initially be for three years, with the possibility of three-year reappointments thereafter. This is a full-time, 9-month position that will consist of six courses per academic year (three per semester) and accompanying administrative and service duties. Of the six courses, two will be online (one per semester) and one of these will be Research Design. Additional compensation is available in summer months for teaching and supervisory duties. Candidates will preferably have a background in online education and/or pedagogy and be able to cover a wide array of courses.

Candidates should consider how they both align with, and expand, the department's current course offerings. We are also interested in candidates with demonstrated ability to cultivate and advocate for an environment of diversity and inclusive excellence based on the position's responsibilities, as well as demonstrated success working with diverse populations. The administrative and service duties include serving as a liaison between the Sociology Department and the Division of Continuing Education with a focus on the Division's online Sociology course offerings. The liaison duties include close collaboration with Sociology's Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies to review possible CE course offerings within the context of the regular departmental scheduling process; administrate and implement the delivery of the department and CE's agreed-upon course offerings; assign instructors (including for development of courses); coordinate alternative solutions when instructors are unable or unwilling to fulfill their agreements with CE; review course evaluations for all SOCY-CE offerings; supervise graduate student and adjunct faculty teaching online for the Division and ensuring their compliance with Division standards and deadlines. The Liaison Instructor will also represent the Sociology Department and Continuing Education as a contributor to CU Boulder campus pedagogical innovation and faculty development projects.

The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to building a culturally diverse community of faculty, staff, and students dedicated to contributing to an inclusive campus environment. We are an Equal Opportunity employer, including veterans and individuals with disabilities.
